Beth Camp

SASP Public Relations Person

Beth Camp attended eight high schools and as many colleges on the west coast of the U.S. She's worked as an international banker, an English teacher at the community college level, and, now retired, writes fiction, short stories, and poetry. A love of writing, international travel, and history led her to write historical fiction.

Standing Stones, award winner at Pacific Northwest Writers Association's 2010 literary contest, introduces the McDonnell family threatened by eviction in 19th Century northern Scotland. The second book, Years of Stone, quarter-finalist in 2014's Amazon's Break-through Novel competition, follows Mac McDonnell as he's transported to Van Diemen's Land (present Tasmania, Australia). Beth's currently working on a third book in this series: Rivers of Stone is set in the wilderness of 19th Century Canada.

Beth lives in Spokane and is happily ready to travel at a moment's notice with her husband (and netbook) to parts unknown.

Standing Stones B00I3RYFW6

In 19th Century northern Scotland, Mac McDonnell's traditional way of life is challenged when Lord Gordon lays claim to their island home and threatens to replace farmers and fishermen with sheep. Mac leads a protest, but when evictions begin, Mac must decide what he is willing to risk -- to protect his family, his sweetheart, Deidre, and his livelihood. Against Mac's wishes, his sister Moira goes to work at Westness. She falls in love and marries Dylan, an Irishman hired by Lord Gordon to help the fishermen retrofit their boats. As conditions worsen on Foulksay Island, Dylan, pushed by memories of cholera and famine, seeks work on the mainland, leaving Moira behind. When a second protest at Westness turns violent and Mac is arrested, each of the McDonnells, now without work and facing starvation, must decide their future.

Standing Stones won an award for historical fiction from the Pacific Northwest Writers Association (2010). PNWA judges called Standing Stones ". . . a very promising work, with appeal to a broad audience, peppered with a variety of characters the reader can identify with sympathetically or instantly distrust." Standing Stones currently has a 5-star ranking on Amazon and is available: as an Ebook on Amazon's Kindle:

YEARS OF STONE B00LF3FY4S

In 1842, Deidre Scott leaves the Orkneys in Scotland to follow Mac McDonnell, the man she loves, a fisherman sentenced to a seven year sentence for resisting evictions. Their ship runs aground just as they reach the dreaded penal colony in Van Diemen's Land (present day Tasmania). As Mac toils on a road gang, Deidre cobbles together a job. Befriended by Lady Franklin, the wife of world-famous explorer, Sir John Franklin, Deidre finds a way to reassign Mac to Doc Morrell in Hobart Town. But Doc cannot help him once Mac fights with Constable Johnson. Mac must find a way to survive the prison at Port Arthur. Can Deidre and Mac build a new life for themselves in this rough and tumble penal colony?

Years of Stone is the second book about the McDonnell Clan, but can be read as a standalone story. Years of Stone was a Quarter finalist in 2014's Amazon's Breakthrough Novel Award (ABNA) competition. ABNA reviewers commented Years of Stone "grips from the beginning," and is "not to be missed." It is available: as an Ebook on Amazon's Kindle:

Rivers of Stone 1545217491

In 1842, Catriona, unwilling to be left behind by husband Dougal McDonnell, disguises herself as a boy to work for the Hudson's Bay Company. Within a few days of landing at York Factory on Hudson's Bay, Cat is assigned to work at the trading post, but Dougal is ordered west to Fort Vancouver and the Pacific Northwest – abandoning Cat. Rugged terrain and thousands of miles separate them. How will Cat survive alone? Will she and Dougal be reunited? In RIVERS OF STONE, Cat undertakes a formidable journey during the fur trade era across Canada and the Oregon territory in her quest to find Dougal. Along the way, she befriends voyageurs, Cree, and artist Paul Kane, who travels on behalf of the Hudson's Bay Company. Cat and Dougal were minor characters in STANDING STONES, Book 1, which introduced the McDonnell family as they struggled with the Clearances in Scotland. YEARS OF STONE, Book 2, tells the story of Mac McDonnell and his sweetheart, Deidre, after he was transported to prison in a land over the seas, Van Diemen's Land, Australia. While each book can be read alone, this compelling series about the McDonnell clan immerses the reader into what life was like 150 years ago, when families, often split apart, struggled to shape new lives with few resources. Challenged by fearsome nature and nearly overwhelming obstacles, they held true to their vision of a new life in a new land.

The Mermaid Quilt and Other Tales B0090VHKBC

A green mermaid, with eyes like agates turned by fire, waits by the bus stop . . .

I was never the littlest mermaid, afraid to swim in the deepest parts in the sea, or to sing the biggest ships into madness . . .

Mermaids permeate these 8 stories and 10 poems about mermaids: A grieving artist sleeps under a mermaid quilt. A mermaid argues with a scholar. A pottery maker's daughter befriends a mysterious stranger. A cowboy falls in love with the last mermaid. Two young girls discover a carved mermaid at a garage sale. A mermaid finds respite in a tree. And we discover what mermaids eat.

From the frozen Arctic to Mexico, Scotland, Russia, Brazil, and the United States, these delicate stories and poems, sometimes funny, sometimes dark, shaped by myth from long ago, speak of love, revenge, and redemption. Written for adults, they unravel the heart songs of people who have been buffeted by life. They reinforce our yearning for something good and beautiful, and they reveal a fragile line between reality and magic.

Ranked 4.8 out of 5 stars on Amazon, The Mermaid Quilt & Other Tales is available:
